

Learn about the latest webinar in our GP Education webinar series.

No images? Click here

Our 2 December 2025 webinar has just landed:

Endometriosis in 2025: what it is and what it's not.

Dear GPs,

We are excited to invite you to our final webinar for 2025.

Led by Monash Health Specialist Gynaecologists A/Professor Jim Tsalto and Dr Phil Thomas, this session will provide you with practical management strategies to support women with endometriosis-related pain while they wait for public clinic review or surgery.

Learning outcomes:

- Take a thorough history to distinguish endometriosis-related pain from other conditions.
- Discuss the modern imaging techniques available to assist with diagnosis of endometriosis.

- Outline the recommended pharmaceutical options for endometriosis-related pain.
- Describe surgical and other available options for managing endometriosis symptoms.

The GP Education webinar series is designed to support GPs with practical, evidence-based updates across a range of clinical areas. Delivered by Monash Health specialists, each session focuses on a topic of interest in general practice, offering clear, case-based guidance to support diagnosis, management and referral decisions.

Whether you're looking to refresh your knowledge, stay current with best practices, or gain insight into local referral pathways, this series is designed to be relevant, concise and directly applicable to your work in primary care.

December 2025 Webinar

Endometriosis in 2025: what it is and what it's not

- Presented by: Dr Phil Thomas - Deputy Director, Gynaecology, Monash Health and A/Prof Jim Tsalto – Director Minimally Invasive Gynaecological Surgery, Monash Health
- When: Tuesday 2 December, 7 pm to 8:30 pm
- Delivered: Online via MS Teams
- Pending RACGP approval for 1.5 CPD EA hours

Register now for our December GP webinar

For more information on this webinar series please email us at GPEducation@monashhealth.org.

You are receiving this email from the Monash Health GP Liaison Unit as you are listed on the National Health Services Directory.

If you have any feedback or believe your email address has been included in error, please contact: GPLiaison@monashhealth.org

Unsubscribe